

Like many other cities of the region, at first São Carlos was largely dedicated to the production of coffee. Subsequently, the changing economy forced modernization and with it came the need to invest in new infrastructure. This, allied to the abundant immigrant workforce (mostly Italians), led to the industrialization of the city. With over 246,000 people*, São Carlos, which has become known for pioneering innovation and an enterprising spirit, came to possess a well-developed urban infrastructure before many other Brazilian cities. The city has turned into one of the most representative economies of its region and also a Brazilian landmark in terms of technology and education, having 3 universities (USP, UFSCar and UNICEP).
