

Thursday, August 4, 2022

TGSW2022

Open Call for Participants

Title of the Session: Science for Humanity

Keywords: interdisciplinary, international, innovation, humanity

What is it about?

This theme highlights the importance of our multi-disciplinary research, research that advances knowledge and responds to the needs of humanity. By gathering young minds from different fields of expertise, the intention is to exchange thoughts and ideas, form strong international connections, and work on establishing a solid base to build new technological innovations which will be of use to all humanity.

How we can collaborate in creating a safer and more sustainable future?

Who is it for?

Young researchers, but we will also have a panel discussion, which will be open to everyone active in interdisciplinary area.

Many topics can branch out from this one theme, which can be worthy of our discussion.

Date of the Session: Thursday, September 29, 2022

Type of Session: Hybrid

Abstract submission: Until Friday, August 26, 2022

Please, send your abstracts to:

stoic.marko.fu@un.tsukuba.ac.jp

yokoyama.maki.fa@un.tsukuba.ac.jp

Agenda and other details for the session will be announced in September