Praça do Relógio São Paulo Campus

Universidade de São Paulo is one of the most prestigious higher education and research institutions in Brazil and figures among the best universities in the world. With several campuses distributed over eight cities (Bauru, Lorena, Piracicaba, Pirassununga, Ribeirão Preto, Santos, São Carlos and São Paulo) within the state of São Paulo, USP has over 94,000 undergraduate and graduate students and 6,000 faculty members. The schools of USP cover most of the disciplines and provide the students with a fertile study and research environment.

INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION OFFICE

The USP International Cooperation Office (usp.br/internationaloffice/en) develops and implements policies that seek to favour the internationalization of the institution.

Among its attributions, the USP International Cooperation Office:

Establishes cooperation strategies between USP and its international partners.

Supports each of the individual schools' local international offices in their efforts towards greater internationalization.

Provides information about research and mobility opportunities for the wider USP community, including undergraduate and graduate students, professors and technical-administrative personnel.

Fosters academic international cooperation.

Selects, prepares and discloses information about programs and initiatives concerned with academic cooperation
